Senator Mike Shirkey of the 16th District offered the following invocation:

Heavenly Father, we are grateful to be here today this morning to do the work of the people of Michigan. We ask that You send Your Holy Spirit to be within each and every one of us as we discern right from wrong, up from down, left from right, and north from south. Lord, we just ask that You would be especially present as we are progressing on bills and conversations and debates over some very important issues before us. In all cases however, Lord, just make sure that we are focused primarily and exclusively on Your will for our lives and our state.

We ask all these things in Your precious Son's name. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Gilchrist, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Protests

Senators Brinks, Polehanki, McCann, Bayer, Santana, McMorrow, Hertel, Bullock, Geiss, Chang, Alexander, Moss, Wojno and Hollier, under their constitutional right of protest (Art. 4, Sec. 18), protested against the passage of Senate Bill No. 457.

Senator Brinks' statement, in which Senators Polehanki, McCann, Bayer, Santana, McMorrow, Hertel, Bullock, Geiss, Chang, Alexander, Moss, Wojno and Hollier concurred, is as follows:

There is currently no requirement for vaccines to be administered in order for a student to attend school in Michigan. There is simply a list of recommended vaccines that are recommended for children and recommended by pediatricians and the state Department of Health and Human Services. There is a requirement that parents provide a record of those vaccines that are received by their children to the school. If parents do not wish to have their children receive some, any, or all of the vaccinations, they simply need to avail themselves of the waiver process that is established by the state in law. It is worth noting that Michigan has a very liberal immunization exemption policy. A parent can opt out of having their children vaccinated for medical reasons, for religious reasons, or for philosophical reasons. To prohibit a requirement for something for which there is no precedent of a requirement nor any proposal to create such a requirement is simply unnecessary. It plays on unfounded fears of well-meaning parents and it puts reasonable public health measures at risk of endangering us all.

This bill is simply another solution in search of a problem and it joins a growing list of other bills that are the same. I urge a "no" vote.

Point of Order

Senator Chang raised the Point of Order that after a vote is taken, only "no" vote explanations are allowed to be given.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Gilchrist, ruled that comments in support of a bill need to be made before it is voted on and sustained the point.

By unanimous consent the Senate proceeded to the order of

Statements

Senators Theis, Hertel, Santana, Runestad and Irwin asked and were granted unanimous consent to make statements and moved that the statements be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Theis' statement is as follows:

If we've learned anything over the past year and a half, it's that we need to be proactive rather than reactive with respect to statute and in that particular vein, that's what we were looking at with respect to this bill. We've seen over and over again that while they might not be mandating something, they are certainly creating a scenario where mandates are effectively being pushed and I just wanted to ensure that that wasn't going to happen in this space. Our children—their parents—should be allowed to make the decisions on this and I wanted to make sure that was happening.

Senator Hertel's statement is as follows:

It seems like this body wants to be proactive against all kinds of things that don't actually exist—so I'll be looking forward to the Bigfoot bills next week—but nobody is trying to make this mandatory in Michigan. Everybody knows it. I'm sure it's great for a Breitbart article. And for those who say that children and parents should be making decisions about children, I agree and I look forward to your hearing later today where you tell people's kids who can play sports.

Senator Santana's statement is as follows:

Today I rise to acknowledge the anniversary of the death of our brother George Floyd who was wrongfully killed unfortunately and this has been far too common in our communities—communities of color—for far too long. I've had the opportunity this morning to listen to State Representative Richardson from Minnesota talk about how for her son, the death of George Floyd has changed his total mode of operation where he was one who enjoyed as his leisure activities running in his community, but yet because of the post-traumatic stress that he has endured, he's had to change his whole lifestyle to now riding his bike. How unfair is this? How unfair is it that he as a young Black male who enjoys running feels some kind of way because he doesn't know how the outcome will be if he's perceived to be doing something wrong or stopped wrongfully by law enforcement and may not make it home. This is the story of far too many people in our communities.

It's not just the story of George Floyd but it's the story of many people, and when I look at what has occurred it's the fact that we received justice for this particular circumstance; however, how many other people have not received that justice? I also was able to hear from two other law enforcement officers from the Minnesota police force who also said that when they saw the outcome from this situation, they also felt some injustices as law enforcement officers. They felt that what was done to George Floyd was wrong, that Derek Chauvin was in a state of yellow—which means he was in a calm state when he kept his foot on George Floyd's neck for eight minutes and forty-six seconds—and when they called EMTs, instead of a Code 3 where ambulances will come because it's an emergency, they called in a Code 2. This situation has opened the eyes of so many people, not only the people who have post-traumatic stress from being African-American in this country but also many others because we had the opportunity to see with our own eyes during this pandemic what really goes on when it comes to communities of color.

I encourage all of us today to not only reflect on the death of George Floyd but also think about how we as lawmakers in this body and bodies across this country can make effective changes to make sure that officers who are acting unwillfully in their roles and not being held accountable will be held accountable for their actions. God bless you George Floyd. May your life not go in vain and may your death not be forgotten.

Senator Runestad's statement is as follows:

A while back there was a congressman who walked into the office of his trusted chief of staff and the chief said, Congressman I hate to tell you this but your constituents are really beginning to disagree with your doctrines. The congressman pondered on that for a while and then he responded to the chief, Well chief, when enough of my constituents disagree with my doctrines to constitute a reliable majority then I'm going to do an absolute somersault, turn around, and I'm going to agree with them. So it is with our Governor. Governor Whitmer has violated her own admonitions, her own injunctions, even her DHHS orders. And when she suddenly hears the voice of the people and their outrage, she somersaults to the left, to the right, to the center, and now agrees with them. Because they are now beginning to constitute a reliable majority opposing her doctrines. The people in the state of Michigan have had enough of the good for thee, but not for me. I'm glad to see the Governor is finally recognizing the voice of the people and their opposition to her doctrines and hypocrisy and are starting to change them.

Senator Irwin's statement is as follows:

I also rise to reflect on the death of George Floyd on his anniversary and reflect on the work of this Michigan Senate over the course of the last couple of years. I think that when we all look back at our time in the Senate we're not going to remember the political sniping, we're not going to remember the attacks that are personal, and the things that we weren't able to come together on. I think what we're going to remember most from the One Hundredth Session of the Michigan Legislature was how we were able to come together on criminal justice reform. I think that when we all look back we're going to think about all the people that we helped through that process last year through bipartisan action. And so I want you to reflect on that and think about the fact that even though we came together last year on a number of issues like expungement, we were unable to put a single piece of police reform legislation on the Governor's desk. George Floyd was murdered, we had a summer of activism, and yet our Legislature failed to act.

But we have another opportunity this year and I'm very excited that we've now introduced a bipartisan package of bills that could improve policing here in the state of Michigan. So let's focus on what we can do together. Let's put behind us some of these petty, ugly, political fights that get us nowhere—that attack vulnerable children; that put them in the crosshairs. Let's instead talk about what we can do to come together. And this police improvement package is a great example of that. So let's let that be the first step. Let's let our budget negotiations hopefully be another step and let's keep working together to do something good for the people of Michigan rather than allowing this Senate to be pulled down into an ugly cesspool of political recriminations and political fighting.

Thank you, Mr. President. I wanted to offer those words on the anniversary of George Floyd's murder and to call upon all of us to put aside some of our political differences and focus on the things that we can actually get done for our people.

By unanimous consent the Senate returned to the order of Resolutions

Senator Lauwers moved that the Senate proceed to consideration of the following resolution:

Senate Resolution No. 51

The motion prevailed.

Senate Resolution No. 51.

A resolution to observe May 16-22, 2021, as Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Week.

(This resolution was reported by the Committee on Health Policy and Human Services on Thursday, May 20. See p. 808.)

The question being on the adoption of the resolution,

The resolution was adopted.

Senator VanderWall asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator VanderWall's statement is as follows:

I want to talk a little bit about Senate Resolution No. 51, recognizing Emergency Medical Services Week. Last week in the Health Policy and Human Services Committee we had several members from the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services testify about the work of EMS personnel and the challenges they face. It takes a special breed of person to be able to perform the kinds of duties these individuals perform, especially under the pressure of a job where every second counts. EMS personnel work around the clock to provide a vital service and I encourage everyone to acknowledge the hard work, professionalism, and dedication embodied by those in this profession. This has been especially true during the unknown dangers of the coronavirus. These critical frontline workers were able to quickly adapt to the crisis and go above and beyond to provide lifesaving care to those in need. I ask for your support on this important resolution recognizing all our EMS workers here in the state of Michigan.

By unanimous consent the Senate proceeded to the order of
